WRITING

Usually children study at school. Many parents educate their children at school but sometimes they can educate them at home. There are several advantages of educating children at home. At home, children can learn more effectively because they are not distracted by external factors like talking with classmates and noise. Also there is given individual attention to students.

On the other hand, children are not in society as a result of which they can not be able to communicate with people. Moreover, children can not perform chemistry and physics.

experiments without the necessary equipment

In conclusion, there are arguments for and against educating children at home but I believe that parents should decide where to ~~study~~^{educate} their child because he still can not make informed decisions. But if I could choose, I would undoubtedly choose study at home because for me it is more convenient.
